Santa Barbara Weather

If you are packing for a trip to Santa Barbara bring your sunhat and leave your umbrella behind. Santa Barbara generally receives 300 days of sunshine a year and only 15 inches of rainfall. While December is usually the coldest month of the year, it is not usual to see locals wearing shorts and t-shirts throughout the winter. Summer months are moderate with very low humidity, average highs are in the 70's. This is why Santa Barbara is considered a year-round destination with tourists and travelers coming from around the world to experience sunny beaches and trails.
